

Randonville

By: Patty

December 12, 2006 - 3:10 am

Recently I had the opportunity to try several products from Maryam's Soap Nook. She has a ton of great products — handmade soaps, scrubs, body butters, body oil, body mists, and there is always a special with extras when you spend over a certain dollar amount. She has things with scent and without scent for those of you that like your body products low octane in the fragrance area.

The whipped body butter is just excellent. (No, it's not Frederic Malle's Beurre Exquise, but it's also not over $100 for a tub of it!) It went on really smooth and emollient and kept me moisturized for hours, which is tough to do in Denver. $15 for an 8 ounce jar and $25 for a 16-ounce jar. The Shea Butter and Dead Sea Salt Glow Scrub scented with lemongrass, lime and Ginger was the bomb – loved the fragrance and got a great sloughing with a lot of moisture in the oil keeping my skin all moisturized. Followed with the body butter, I almost forgot I live in high desert... and it's winter. $15 for an 8 ounce jar. The soaps are handmade and scented beautifully.

Comments/Trackbacks \(12\) | Permalink

Filed under: What Smells

